Great game, but the Steam version is unplayable.. It's a good game but in stream has too many Bugs in game. Not like the game on CD.. Sure the game is fun at first, but as you get farther into the game you start to notice its missing some things. 2 theater textures are not present (A mission involves one of those building making it impossible to complete that mission). The bridges are poorly developed, The entrance to the bridges completely go over other roads and they don't even connect to the other side they simply end in water. And some ground textures are not present and lots of errors in Central Park.. This is a great game! For the ones fearing crashes: try this: Delete the following folders: ANIMS MODELS in your game directory/data/Art. They contain the broken files which cause the frequent crashes in the steam version. Deleting those will consecutively lead to an overall superior gaming experience.. Disregard the 'Mostly Negative' reviews. As someone who is very critical about game play, this is a tycoon game not to be missed. The main issue is that the Steam edition has a major bug which make the game crash after four minutes, but this is an easily fix when you delete a file in the game folder which will then make the game playable. This game is highly addicting and focuses on managing business across the many districts of New York City. You are a developer, and there you're tycoon will consist of over 200 different buildings and their features. You could be running 30 different types of apartments which have very specific desirability and profits, pizza stores, movie theaters, specialty shops, fancy restaurants, department stores, convenient stores, the list is endless. It's actually quite shocking how much content isn't advertise for this game. Fairly easy tycoon game with a lot of replay value and addicting game hours. It's much MUCH larger than it appears, and should be a number one pick for anyone who likes or loves tycoon games. It's well worth the money.. Steam has ruined this game. What was once an excellent and fun game to play has been made unplayable with Steam. Textures are missing, buildings are solid grey rectangles, it crashes consistently. If you want to play this game, purchase from a different provider.. I only have 3 things to say: buggy, buggy and buggy. The action in the game is great. But it just feels the game is not finished. Lots of textures flicker. Lots of glitches. And not to mention the fact that it randomly crashes. If you don't save frequently you'll have a bad surprise. But on the other hand the game itself has something that newer games tend to lose over the years and versions. If it wasn't for all the glitches in the game it would keep up with modern games very well. If it was cheaper I would recommend it. But at 10 EUR is way to pricey. There are recent releases that are cheaper than this that came out in 2006. IMO this game would be worth it at 2-3 EUR.. Brilliant game, economics just got fun. Some people will hate this game and hate on it for being so simple. but this game is acctually genius i love it and its very well developed for a city building sim. you basically are in new york with around 20 other AI business people the idea is to make the best business. then the best chain of stores with a massive depot office one you have developed enough sucessful businesses of the same type. each sim can be stopped in the street and they have a large pool of information concernuing where the like things etc etc, its acctually all the right information depending on the type of personality the sim has, they also work or attend education. you dont have to just build shops and resturants, you can build accomidation, entertainment venues, hotels, luxury locations for the rich and famous providing they have a suitable enviroment, education building and some council buildings, depending on you inividual businesses success you will watch you quirqy empire rise to the top from being the only deli in the over developed office section, or your art shop in the middle of knowhere that you built by accident suddenly hit city record sales from the rich and famous attending the new entertainment venues nearby. its just so much fun to watch and plan. HOWEVER, this is the very bad current steam version on the game and a few in game items will not work and just appear as blank texture boxes in grey. Unless you are a die hard fan i would stay away until the textures are fixed or some nice person makes a workaround for the steam version (i hope they do) i love this game. Currently the bugs are not isolated to individuals but all people who have played the steam version of this game and have found many none working items in the form of big grey boxes.
